This Seattle-based duo brings us “old-time music styled for the 21st century.”

Their show is a “Bermuda triangle where folk, bluegrass and old-time converge” in lean vocal harmonies over claw hammer banjo, mingling with delicate, intricate guitar riffs “awash in rustic charm, wonderfully structured picking and excellent vocals.”

“The roots of Cahalen Morrison & Eli West are strong, their branches are shady, and the guitars, banjos, mandolins, and harmonies will carry you far off the beaten path to a place under open Western skies.”

Proceeds benefit the Albion Little River Volunteer Fire Department
